She will be based out of Wichita, working with physician practices in the region to assess clinical performance, identify gaps in best practices, and recommend improvement methods to refine patient care procedures and track quality outcomes.

Johnson's background includes 12 years working in a family physician practice, most recently as Chief of Operations Officer of Augusta Family Practice. She administered its electronic health record system and managed its Merit-Based Incentive Payment System program, among other things.

Johnson holds a Master of Business Administration degree and a Bachelor of Science degree in Organizational Management & Leadership—both from Friends University in Wichita.
