Your host for the Fourth Annual Summit on Quality

The Kansas Healthcare Collaborative is a provider-led organization committed to aligning and engaging its partners to improve healthcare quality for all Kansans. Founded in 2008 by the Kansas Medical Society and the Kansas Hospital Association, KHC embodies the commitment of two of the state's leading health care provider groups to act as a resource and continually enhance the care provided to Kansans.

KHC's fourth annual Summit on Quality will bring together physicians, hospital leadership teams, nurses, medical groups, hospital staff and others from across Kansas to actively discuss and identify initiatives geared toward clinical and systems improvement.

The Summit is endorsed by the Kansas Medical Society and the Kansas Hospital Association; both organizations strongly encourage their members to attend this important conference.

Featured Speakers:

David Nash, MD is founding dean of the Jefferson School of Population Health on the campus of Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia, Pa. Dr. Nash is a Dr. Raymond C. and Doris N. Grandon Professor of Health Policy; this endowed professorship is one of a handful of such chairs in the nation. His appointment as the founding dean culminates a nearly 20-year tenure at Jefferson. He is the co-author of a new book, Demand Better! Revive our Broken Healthcare System.

David Maxfield is the vice-president of research at VitalSmarts, an innovative corporate training company that teaches skills which deliver significant improvements to the results companies care about most. He is the co-author of two New York Times bestsellers, Change Anything: The New Science of Personal Success and Influencer: The Power to Change Anything.

Pulmonary Care Continuum: Hospital to Community

Through a concerted effort of in-hospital and in-community care, the Hutchinson community developed a successful collaborative project that improved the outcomes of pulmonary care. Before-and-after data documents the impact on length of stay, readmission rates, the cost savings realized and the future implications for continued application in the community.

Presenters: Jennifer Rodgers, MSN, APRN, Bobbie Starks, MSN, CCRN, Darla Wilson, BSN, CHPN, and Amanda Hullet, RN, Hutchinson Regional Medical Center, Hutchinson.

Surviving Sepsis in Kansas – The Kansas Sepsis Project

Initiated in 2009, the Kansas Sepsis Project aims to reduce the overall mortality of severe sepsis in Kansas by 10 percent by the end of 2015. The project engages practitioners from hospitals of all sizes and seeks to establish and improve processes of care for patients with severe sepsis, including recognition and documentation of outcomes.

Presenters: Steven Q. Simpson, MD, Professor of Medicine, The University of Kansas, Kansas City; Elizabeth Wenske-Mullinax, PhD, Project Manager, KU Medical Center Continuing Education & Professional Development, Kansas City; and Stephanie Bjornstad, RN, BSN, Quality Outcomes/Risk Manager, Rooks County Health Center, Plainville.

Reduce, Improve, and Enhance with Project RED

In its search for the best practice to reduce preventable readmissions, Neosho Memorial staff found Project RED. With 11 distinct principles to help reduce preventable readmissions, Project RED gives patients the tools and education they need to best manage their chronic illness and current episode of care.

Presenters: Charles VanHouden, MD, MMM, Ashley Clinic, Neosho Memorial Regional Medical Center, Chanute; David Guernsey, MD, Ashley Clinic, Neosho Memorial Regional Medical Center, Chanute; and Koralyn Barkman, RN, BSN, Neosho Memorial Regional Medical Center, Chanute.

Hospital Readmission Prevention Program: A Community Collaborative Approach

Presenters will share the key elements of a Hospital Readmissions Prevention Program delivered at a community, faith-based, 504-bed acute care hospital. Strategies included administrative “buy-in”, identification of at-risk patients, the importance of multi-disciplinary collaboration, and the implementation of a new participant in the role as Transition Care Coach.

Presenters: Larry Botts, MD, Chief Medical Officer, Melanie Davis-Hale, LMSW, Transition Care Coach, and Catherine Lauridsen, RN, BSN, Transition Care Coach, Shawnee Mission Medical Center, Shawnee Mission.

Huddle in the Zone

Given the current healthcare challenges, how do you timely and effectively improve operational efficiencies? This session will focus on how brief - 5-10 minute - daily huddles can improve quality patient outcomes, catheter lab efficiencies, and operational performance. Lessons-learned and leadership strategies will be shared to help participants create and sustain culture change in health care.

Presenter: Carla Yost, BSN, MHA, FACHE, Mercy Regional Health Center, Manhattan.

Educate, Empower, Engage—Panel

Studies demonstrate that the most effective infection prevention programs are rooted in strong commitment from senior leadership. This interactive panel discussion will deliver case scenarios from various sized medical facilities, identify and share successful and innovative strategies for relationship development.

Presenters: Joseph M. Scaletta, MPH, RN, CIC, Kansas Department of Health and Environment, Topeka; Katherine Kilmartin, MT (ASCP), CIC, Stormont-Vail HealthCare, Topeka; Tiffany Horsley, BSN, RN, Coffeyville Regional Medical Center, Coffeyville; and Karen Elliott, BSN, RN, Community HealthCare Systems, Inc., Onaga.
